MEMORIAL TABLET AND HONOR ROLL TO BE ERECTED

A permanent memorial of the men connected with Wainwright Methodism who fell during the great war is about to be erected in Grace Church.

This consists of a white marble tablet of gothic design about 40 inches high and 28 inches wide. In the panel of the pediment will be a large maple leaf flanked by the dates "1914--1918." The inscription, which is in raised letters on a picked ground to ensure permanence, reads as follows:—

"To honor the memory of R. O. Laird, M. E. Hedlund, S. J. Eaton R. J. Smith, H. G. Barso, and G. S. Taylor, who gave their lives for the cause of liberty in the Great War." underneath, in low relief carving, appear the words "Lest we Forget." The whole will be dowelled together with copper in cement and pinned to a frame on the wall of the church by rosette-headed bronze screws.

To balance this, on the opposite side of the church, there will be placed a new Roll of Honor carrying thirty-five names, which is being executed by a Calgary artist and which will be suitably framed by Mr P. Laird. Mr and Mrs Laird are donating the honor roll in memory of their late son Reginald.

The inscription and carving on the memorial tablet are being executed by the Rev N. F. Priestley.

Will friends wishing to donate to the Sunday school fund for the purchase of the tablet see Mr J. Madder or Mr E. Frickelton, or Rev. N. Priestley?

Mrs D. W. Bradshaw of Vancouver, B.C., accompanied by her young daughter Miss Marion and Mrs Todd of Winnipeg, Man., spent the week end visiting her old school friend Mrs B. N. Fraser. SUCCESSFUL FARMER PASSES AWAY AFTER VERY SHORT ILLNESS

Thursday morning residents of the district were shocked to hear of the sudden death of Mr T. Coultman who passed away early Thursday morning after only three days illness. Mr Coultman was in Irma last Saturday and appeared to be in his usual cheerful form. Monday the doctor was summoned and found him suffering from pneumonia which caused his death.

The late Mr Coultman was one of the old timers of the district He settled in what is the Orbindale district some fifteen years ago. Soon after settling on his homestead he was appointed post master for the Orbindale postoffice which was located on his farm. In this way he was able to meet all of the new comers to the district. Many of the old timers have been encouraged by his kind advice and words of encouragement at times when the district was passing thru the pioneer stage.

During his residence in the Orbindale district Mr Coultman has been one of the most successful farmers in this part of Alberta Starting with only his homestead he had at death one of the best improved sections in this part of Alberta.

Mr and Mrs Coultman spent the winter with friends around their old home near Newmarket, Ontario only returning home on March 26th. Besides his wife he leaves one daughter, Mrs G. Parsons and one son Stauton. All of the family were home when he passed away. He was in his 57th year.

We join with the many friends in sympathy with the bereaved family in their great loss. The funeral was held at the Irma cemetery Saturday afternoon last.

McLeod's funeral parlors handled the arrangements.

Greenshields Couple Celebrate Thirtieth Wedding Anniversary

On Thursday April 6th Mr and Mrs D. McDougall, of Greenshields celebrated the thirtieth anniversary of their wedding day. The McDougall farm, which is situated just one-mile east of Greenshields has been renowned for years for its hospitality, and the owners, who are both staunch Presbyterians and faithful supporters of the Union cause at that point, were the recipients of many valuable gifts.

We sincerly congratulate them upon this auspicious occasion and trust they may find the "evening of their day" as full and pleasant as the morn.

The municipalities will get their road grants from the government as usual, and will be limited to a certain extent as to how much work they will undertake in a season.

Harry Mabey Still Putting Town On Cattle Map

As each succeeding Spring stock show comes around Mr Harry Mabey, of whom possibly we have no finer exponent of cattle raising in the district, sees to it that the district is represented by such stock as we may all feel proud of, and this year is certainly no declaimer on past efforts.

On Saturday crowds gathered at the stock yards to witness the boxing up of the "bossies" and a truly remarkable lot they were! Calves, yearlings and two-and three-year olds were among the shipment, and Harry will sure make the rest of the exhibitors "go some" to beat the class of stock which he has raised and tended.

Of course "Buddy" was there with his bull calf, and many were the predictions that if this animal doesn't reach the top he will be very little below it.

We venture to express a well-founded hope that the Mabey entries at the Edmonton Spring show return wearing many red-ribbon awards, and feel confident that what this breeder is doing along the lines of stock-raising is bound to bring its reward to the whole of our district.

The best Spring tonic for horses, cattle, pigs poultry, etc., is International Stock Food from the Wainwright Pharmacy.

Cream Buying Stations Must Close On May 1st.

In the advertising columns of this issue will be noticed an announcement by the Woodland Dairy Limited, of Edmonton, soliciting shipments of cream from the farmers of this district.

This firm has been buying cream from many of the dairymen in this section for a number of years, and with the closing of cream buying stations, in compliance with the legislation recently passed, they have enlisted the aid of this newspaper to inform their cream station patrons that they are still desirous of looking after their shipments on the "Direct Shipment' plan.

The change to the new method of buying cream will be watched with interest. Such changes are bound to cause a little confusion at first; but this system will doubtless work much smoother than many cream shippers seem to anticipate.

RELATIVES OF MISSING SOLDIERS ARE WANTED

Advices from London (Eng.) say that so many fraudulent attempts have been made to collect money from relatives of soldiers reported missing in the great war that the British war office have warned them to be on their guard.

One woman living in London says the war office caused to be inserted in German newspapers an advertisement asking for information regarding her son, who was reported as "missing" in 1917 The mother applied to the war office for particulars which her German correspondents asked for. That office took up the case and discovered, with the aid of the German police, that the "Dead Soldiers' Society" was not a reliable concern, and that at the date of inquiry most of its members were in prison.

FEEDING THE RUSSIAN CHILDREN DOMINION FUND

Pen pictures of the tragedy of starving Russia which have been drawn by eye-witnesses should spur to activity those contented Canadians who have not yet accepted their share of the responsibility in the saving of human lives. It is related that a father brought three children to one of the relief centres and pleaded that they be fed. The answer was that only orphans could be saved: there was not food enough to go around.

"Then they shall be orphans," said the man and he abandoned them to the care of the committee by committing suicide.

In this case the possession of loving parents was really detrimental. Why should children who are not fortunate enough to be fatherless be allowed to suffer the pangs of starvation when there is grain in plenty in the storehouses of the world? It is because those who have been blessed with riches either do not know the real situation or are proof against appeals to the finer instincts of human kind.

No cause has appealed to the sympathy of the world with greater force than the Save the Children Fund. There are no more deserving objects of charity than tender youths who are slowly wasting away for the want of the bare necessities of life, nothing upon which we can bestow a share of the blessings which are ours with more satisfactions to ourselves.

NEW BUREAU OF EMPLOYMENT

Mr Joe Welch, of the Atlas Lumber Co. is starting out on a new line. Do you want to build, buy or insure a home; or paint or repair it; or even trade it for a larger or smaller one? Joe is in touch with all the carpenters, painters, plasters and general mechanics, and by giving him a phone call he will send you a skilled man to advise you on any class of work you require. More of this would kill that "unemployed" bogey!

USE OF SMALL CARDS OR ENVELOPES MUST DISCONTINUE

It is desired that at the coming Easter Season the public should be urged to discontinue, as far as possible, the use of small cards and envelopes and with this in view suitable news items should be placed in the local press and the attention of the public brought to this matter is every possible way. The following objections to the use of small cards and envelopes should be pointed out.

1. As a result of the small size of the cards or envelopes the Post Office cancellation mark frequently falls on the address partially obliterating it with the possibility that the article may be misdelivered or at least delayed.

2. There is difficulty in the post office sortation and handling of small cards and envelopes and this unavoidably causes delay.

3. There is also difficulty in putting small cards or envelopes through stamp cancelling machines at larger offices, and this too causes delay.

4. The small size of the cards or envelopes makes them apt to fall out of bundles in which they are tied, and there is the possibility of foss as a result of this

Responsibility for loss, misdelivery or delay as outlined above, arising from the use of small cards or envelopes, rests entirely with the sender.

CURLERS, ATTENTION!

The wind-up meeting of the Curling club will be held in the Council chamber this evening (Wednesday) at Eight o'clock sharp

Officers for the ensuing year will be elected, and a full attendance of all interested is requested.

"Well, I don't know about that," frowned Miss Flora thoughtfully. "Hattie always declared there'd be a match between her and Mr. Smith, you know."

"Yes. But there wasn't one, was there?" twitted Jane. "Well, then, I shall stick to my original statement that Maggie Duff is a saint, all right, but not a marrying one—unless someone marries her now for her money, of course."

"As if Aunt Maggie'd stand for that!" scoffed Mellicent. "Besides, she wouldn't have to! Aunt Maggie's good enough to be married for herself."

"There, there, child, just because you are a love-sick little piece of romance just now, you needn't think everybody else is," her mother reproved her a little sharply.

But Mellicent only laughed merrily as she disappeared into her own room.

"Speaking of Mr. Smith, I wonder where he is, and if he'll ever come back here," mused Miss Flora, aloud. "I wish he would. He was a very nice man, and I liked him."

"Goodness, Flora, you aren't getting romantic, too, are you?" teased her sister-in-law.

"Nonsense, Jane!" ejaculated Miss Flora sharply, buttoning up her coat. "I'm no more romantic than—than poor Maggie herself is!"

Two weeks later, to a day, came Miss Maggie's letter announcing her engagement to Mr. Stanley G. Fulton, and saying that she was to be married in Chicago before Christmas.

CHAPTER XXVI.

Re-enter Mr. Stanley G. Fulton

In the library of Mrs. Thomas Tyndasy's Chicago home Mr. Stanley G. Fulton was impatiently awaiting the appearance of Miss Maggie Duff. In a minute she came in, looking charmingly youthful in her new, well-fitting frock.

The man, quickly on his feet at her entrance, gave her a lover's ardent kiss; but almost instantly he held her off at arm's length.

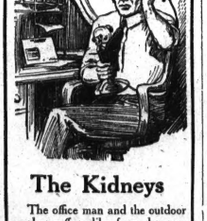

"Why, dearest, what's the matter?" he demanded.

"W-what do you mean?"

"You look as if—if something had happened—not exactly a bad something, but— What is it?"

Miss Maggie laughed softly.

"That's one of the very nicest things about you, Mr. Stanley G. Fulton John Smith," she sighed, nestling comfortably into the curve of his arm, as they sat down on the divan;—"that you notice things so. And it seems so good to me to have somebody—notice."

The Kidneys

The office man and the outdoor worker suffer alike from derangements of the kidneys.

Backaches and headaches are among the symptoms. In some cases Bright's disease soon develops, others suffer from high blood pressure until hardening of the arteries sets in.

In order to forestall painful and fatal diseases prompt action should be taken at the first sign of trouble.

Mr. A. D. MacKinnon, Kirkwood, Inverness county, N.S., writes:

"I can highly recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to all suffering from weak kidneys. I suffered from kidney disease for a long time. I may also say that for three years I was nearly always troubled with headaches, and no treatment seemed to do more than afford temporary relief. I was finally told of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and after using a few boxes was completely relieved. I have also used Dr. Chase's Ointment with the best results, and never fail to recommend these wonderful remedies."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25c a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

"Poor lonely little woman! And to think of all these years I've wasted!"

"Oh, but I shan't be lonely any more now, — And, listen—I'll tell you what made me look so funny. I've had a letter from Flora. You know I wrote them—about my coming marriage."

"Yes, yes," eagerly. "Well, what did they say?"

Miss Maggie laughed again.

"I believe—I'll let you read the letter for yourself, Stanley. It tells some things, toward the end, that I think you'll like to know," she said, a little hesitatingly, as she held out the letter she had brought into the room with her.

"Good! I'd like to read it," cried Fulton, whisking the closely written sheets from the envelope.

My Dear Maggie (Flora had written): Well, mercy me, you have given us a surprise this time, and no mistake! Yet we're all real glad, Maggie, and we hope you'll be awfully happy. You deserve it, all right. Poor Maggie! You've had such an awfully hard time all your life!

Well, when your letter came, we were just going out to Jim's for an old-fashioned Thanksgiving dinner, so I took it along with me and read it to them all. I kept it till we were all together, too, though I most bursted with the news all the way out.

Well, you ought to have heard their tongues wag! They were all struck dumb first, for a minute, all except Mellicent. She spoke up the very first thing, and clapped her hands.

"There!" she cried. "What did I tell you? I knew Aunt Maggie was good enough for anybody!"

To explain that I'll have to go back a little. We were talking one day about you—Jane and Mellicent and me—and we said you were a saint, only not a marrying saint. But Mellicent thought you were, and it seems she was right. Oh, of course, we'd all thought once Mr. Smith might take a fancy to you, but we never dreamed of such a thing as this —Mr. Stanley G. Fulton! Sakes alive —I can hardly sense it yet!

Jane, for a minute, forgot how rich he was, and spoke right up real quick like. "It's for her money, of course. I knew someone would marry her for that fifty thousand dollars!" But she laughed then, right off, with the rest of us, at the idea of a man under twenty millions marrying anybody for fifty thousand dollars.

Benny says there ain't any man alive good enough for his Aunt Maggie, so if Mr. Fulton gets to being too high-headed sometimes, you can tell him what Benny says.

But we're all real pleased, honestly, Maggie, and of course we're terribly excited. We're so sorry you're going to be married out there in Chicago. Why can't you make him come to Hillerton? Jane says she'd be glad to make a real nice wedding for you—and when Jane says a thing like that, you can know how much she's really saying, for Jane's awfully poor these days, since they lost all that money, you know.

And we'd all like to see Mr. Fulton, too—"Cousin Stanley,' as Hattie always calls him. Please give him our congratulations—but there, that sounds funny, doesn't it? (But the etiquette editors in the magazines say we must always give best wishes to the bride and congratulations to the groom.) Only it seems funny here, to congratulate that rich Mr. Fulton on marrying you... Oh, dear! I didn't mean it that way, Maggie. I declare, if that sentence wasn't 'way in the middle of this third page, and so awfully hard for me to write, anyway, I'd tear up this sheet and begin another. But, after all, you'll understand, I'm sure. You know we all think the world of you. It's just that—that Mr. Fulton is—is such a big man, and all— But you know what I meant.

Well, anyway, if you can't come here to be married, we hope you'll bring him here soon so we can see him, and see you, too. We miss you awfully, Maggie—truly we do, especially since Jim's folks went, and with Mr. Smith gone, too, Jane and I are real lonesome.

Jim and Hattie like real well where they are. They've got a real pretty home, and they're the biggest folks in town, so Hattie doesn't have to worry for fear she won't live quite so fine as her neighbors—though really I think Hattie's got over that now a good deal. That awful thing of Fred's sobered her a lot, and taught her who her real friends were, and that money ain't everything.

Fred is doing splendidly now, just as steady as a clock. It does my soul good to see him and his father together. They are just like chums. And Bessie—she isn't near so disagreeable and airy as she was. Hattie took her out of that school and put her into another where she's getting some real learning and less society and frills and dancing. Jim is doing well, and I think Hattie's real happy. Oh, of course, when we first heard that Mr. Fulton had got back, I think she was kind of disappointed. You know she always did insist we were going to have the rest of that money if he didn't show up. But she told me just Thanksgiving Day that she didn't know but 'twas just as well, after all, that they didn't have the money, for maybe Fred'd go wrong again, or it would strike Benny this time. Anyhow, however much money she had, she said, she'd never let her children spend so much again, and she'd found out money didn't bring happiness, always, anyway.

Mellicent and Donald are going to be married next summer. Donald don't get a very big salary yet, but Mellicent says she won't mind a bit going back to economizing again, now that for once she's had all the chocolates and pink dresses she wanted. What a funny girl she is—but she's a dear girl, just the same, and she's settled down real sensible now. She and Donald are as happy as can be, and even Jane likes Donald real well now.

Jane's gone back to her tidies and aprons and skimping on everything. She says she's got to, to make up that forty thousand dollars. But she enjoys it, I believe. Honestly, she acts most as happy trying to save five cents as Frank does earning it in his old place behind the counter. And that's saying a whole lot, as you know. Jane knows very well she doesn't have to pinch that way. They've got lots of the money left, and Frank's business is better than even. But she just likes to.

You complain because I don't tell you anything about myself in my letters, but there isn't anything to tell. I am well and happy, and I've just thought up the nicest thing to do. Mary Hicks came home from Boston sick last September, and she's been here at my house ever since. Her own home ain't no place for a sick person, you know, with all those children, and they're awfully poor, too. So I took her here with me. She's a real nice girl. She works in a department store and was all played out, but she's picking up wonderfully here and is going back next week.

Well, she was telling me about a girl that works with her at the same counter, and saying how she wished she had a place like this to go to for a rest and change, so I'm going to do it —give them one, I mean, she and the other girls. Mary says there are a dozen girls that she knows right there that are half-sick, but would get well in a minute if they only had a few weeks of rest and quiet and good food. So I'm going to take them, two at a time, so they'll be company for each other. Mary is going to fix it up for me down there, and pick out the girls and she says she knows the man who owns the store will be glad to let them off, for they are all good help, and he's been afraid he'd lose them. He'd offered them a month off, besides their vacation, but they couldn't take it, because they didn't have any place to go or money to pay. Of course, that part will be all right now. And I'm so glad and excited I don't know what to do. Oh, I do hope you'll tell Mr. Fulton some time how happy he's made me, and how perfectly splendid that money's been for me.

Well, Maggie, this is a long letter, and I must close. "Tell me all about the new clothes you are getting, and I hope you will get a lot.

Lovingly yours,

Flora.

P.S. Does Mr. Fulton look like his pictures? You know I've got one.

F.

P.S. again. Maggie Duff, for pity's sake, never tell that man that ever I went into mourning for him and put flowers before his picture. I'd be mortified to death!

"Bless her heart!" With a smile Mr. Fulton folded the letter and handed it back to Miss Maggie.

"I didn't feel that I was betraying confidences — under the circumstances," murmured Miss Maggie.

"Hardly!"

"And there was a good deal in the letter that I did want you to see," added Miss Maggie.

"Hm-m; the congratulations, for one thing," twinkled the man. "Poor Maggie!"

"I wanted you to see how really, in the end, that money was not doing so much harm, after all," asserted Miss Maggie, with some dignity, shaking her head at him reprovingly. "I thought you'd be glad, sir!"

"I am glad. I'm so glad that, when I come to make my will now, I shouldn't wonder if I remembered them all again—a little—that is, if I have anything left to will," he teased shamelessly. "Oh, by the way, that makes me think. I've just been putting up a monument to John Smith."

"Stanley!" Miss Maggie's voice carried genuine shocked distress.

"But, my dear Maggie, something was due the man," maintained Fulton, reaching for a small flat parcel near him and placing it in Miss Maggie's hands.

"But—oh, Stanley, how could you?" she shivered, her eyes on the words the millionaire had penciled on the brown paper covering of the parcel. Sacred to the memory of John Smith.

"Open it," directed the man.

With obvious reluctance Miss Maggie loosened the paper covers and peered within. The next moment she gave a glad cry.

In her hands lay a handsome brown leather volume with gold letters, reading:—

The Blaisdell Family
by
John Smith

"And you—did that!" she asked, her eyes luminous.

"Yes. I shall send a copy each to Frank and Jim and Miss Flora, of course. That's the monument. I thought it due—Mr. John Smith. Poor man, it's the least I can do for him—and the most—unless—" He hesitated with an unmistakable look of embarrassment.

"Yes," prompted Miss Maggie eagerly. "Yes!"

"Well, unless—I let you take me to Hillerton one of these days and see if—if Stanley G. Fulton, with your gracious help, can make peace for John Smith with those—er—cousins of mine. You see, I still feel confoundedly like that small boy at the keyhole, and I'd like—to open that door! Could we do it, do you think?"

"Do it? Of course we could! And, oh, Stanley, it's the one thing needed to make me perfectly happy," she sighed blissfully.

To Aid Refugees

Great Britain Will Give Ten Millions To Transfer Russians

Plans for taking Russian refugees from Constantinople and elsewhere to Southern European states have been approved by the council of the League of Nations. It has decided also to have the task proceed under the supervision of Dr. Fridtjor Nansen who is high commissioner of the international committee for Russian relief. The various countries will be asked by the council to help the transfer of refugees by issuing free identification papers and free visas to them. Great Britain is to give £10,000 toward the evacuation of Russians from Egypt, Cyprus and Malta.

The number of women students attending German universities has increased nearly four-fold during the past decade.

Pimzie Returns From South America.

As soon as Pimzie returned to his End-of-the-Earth home and rested a few hours Bronies he told them all about his adventure with the Helmeted Basilisk, and naturally they were very interested.

"You miss an awful lot of fun," he added, "by not going more to the world where Humans live.

I love it; for I always see something new and I learn things all the time."

Just then Stella, the Wishing Fairy, joined them. She had had a long ride through the air on her Butterfly, and, with a tired, happy little sigh, she flung herself down on the moss to rest.

"Have you ever heard of a Cockatrice?" she asked.

The Brownies shook their heads.

"Pimzie's Basilisk friend reminded me of it," she continued, stretching herself to the full of her tiny length in the sunshine. "Once upon a time—ages ago—Humans believed that a certain Dragon-Basilisk was hatched from the egg of the cock, so they called it a Cockatrice. It was supposed to be an African Snake, whose breath poisoned the surrounding air, and if its eye should fall upon you you would die—man or animal. Of course it was all nonsense and imagination, but nevertheless Humans were dreadfully frightened of this fabled creature—just as frightened as though it really existed. When all is said and done," and the little Fairy smiled thoughtfully, "most fears of Humans are pretty much like this one—there is no reason for them. The harmless, innocent little Lizard that you saw, Pim, dear, is called a Basilisk because it is supposed to look like the ancient Cockatrice-Basilisk, and it is a cousin of the Iguana. What else did you see in South America?"

"I saw Mr. Jacana," the Brownie answered, "and he looked just the same as when he came here to see you."

"When I granted his wish to be able to walk over the pond lily pods without falling in the water!" laughed the Fairy.

"He was running over the lilies with the thin long toes you gave him and was having a beautiful time when I saw him. He rather reminded me of Humans with their big snowshoes—they way they can stay on top of the snow without sinking through."

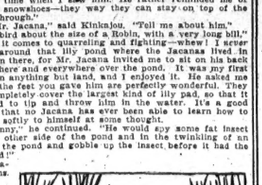

"I don't remember Mr. Jacana," said Kinkajou. "Tell me about him."

"He is a small dark bird about the size of a Robin, with a very long bill," said Pimzie, "and when it comes to quarreling and fighting—whew! I never saw such fighting as around that lily pond where the Jacanas lived in flocks! I had lots of fun there, for Mr. Jacana invited me to sit on his back while he ran here and there and everywhere over the pond. It was my first experience in walking on anything but land, and I enjoyed it. He asked me to tell you, Stella, that the feet you gave him are perfectly wonderful. They are so big that they completely cover the largest kind of lily pad, so that it is impossible for a pad to tip and throw him in the water. It's a good thing because it seems that no Jacana has ever been able to learn how to swim." Pimzie laughed softly to himself at some thought.

"He was ever so funny," he continued. "He would spy some fat insect hovering over the very other side of the pond and in the twinkling of an eye he would skip over the pond and gobble up the insect before it had the chance to be astonished!"

"How about Mrs. Jacana?" asked Snookums. "Did you see her?"

"Yes," Pimzie replied. "She even showed me her nest. It was hidden in a lot of high grasses and was quite full of eggs. They were peculiar eggs, of an olive-brown color marked with dark lines. Well, boys," he cried, springing up, "as long as we can't run across the water Jacana fashion let's swim in it!" And they all ran toward the Get Big Pool.

The Price of Success

Any Man Can Succeed Who Is Willing To Stick To It

You want success, but are you willing to pay the price for it?

How much discouragement can you stand?

How much bruising can you take?

How long can you hang on in the face of obstacles?

Have you the courage to try to do what others have failed to do?

Have you the nerve to attempt things that the average man would never dream of tackling?

Have you the persistence to keep on trying after repeated failures?

Can you go up against scepticism, ridicule and opposition without flinching?

Can you keep your mind steadily on the single object you are pursuing, resisting all temptations to divide your attention?

Have you the patience to plan all the work you attempt; the energy to wade through masses of detail; the accuracy to overlook no point, however small, in planning or executing?

Are you strong on the finish as well as quick at the start?

Success is sold in the open market. You can buy it. Any man can buy it who is willing to pay the price.—The Efficiency Magazine.

New Method Used For Preserving Wood

Inject Solution Into Growing Tree With a Hypodermic Needle

A new method for the preserving of wood has recently been employed in Germany and is known as the "Cobra Process." The method is executed by the use of a hypodermic needle injecting a mixture of five parts pulverized copper sulphate and a saturated solution of calcium chloride. The needle has an oval section and is mechanically driven into the tree to a depth of three inches. This is done while the tree is yet in the bush and the mixture flows through the natural tissues and mixes with the sap. The process is also claimed to be a good preventative of rot in wooden piles, posts, telegraph poles, etc.

New Variety of Wheat

Oregon Man Evolves Wheat With Smut-Rust Resistance

Wheat, totally resistant to smut or rust, heretofore unknown to plant pathologists, has been evolved, as a result of experiments conducted at the Government Experimental Station in Oregon, by B. E. Stephens, superintendent, and his assistants. He has succeeded in producing four distinct varieties of wheat that are completely immune from smut, he said. From these, he has brought forth a number of hybrid varieties of great promise, by crossing his smut resisting wheats with some of the most productive of the present varieties grown.

A GOOD MEDICINE FOR THE SPRINGTIME

Do Not Use Harsh Purgatives—A Tonic is All You Need

Not sick—but not feeling quite well. That is the way most people feel in the spring. Easily tired, appetite fickle, sometimes headaches and a feeling of depression. Pimples or eruptions may appear on the skin, or there may be twinges of rheumatism or neuralgia. Any of these indicate that the blood is out of order—that the indoor life of winter has left its mark upon you and may easily develop into more serious trouble.

Do not dose yourself with purgatives, as so many people do, in the hope that you can put your blood right. Purgatives gallop through the system and weaken instead of giving strength. Any doctor will tell you this is true. What you need in the spring is a tonic that will enrich the blood and build up the nerves. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do this speedily, safely and surely. Every dose of this medicine helps to enrich the blood which clears the skin, strengthens the appetite and makes tired, depressed men, women and children bright, active and strong. Miss S. L. McEachren, Nairn P.O., N.B., says: "I have been in the habit of taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the spring and they keep me in the best of health. I think it is entirely due to the use of these pills that I always have such good health."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Taking Census of Bees

New Electrical Device Counts Insects As they Leave Hive

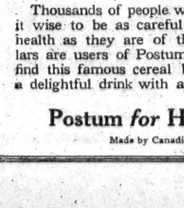

A census of the bees in a hive has been made possible by a device invented by an employe of the Bureau of Entomology, Washington, which consists of a gate placed at the entrance of the hive with a series of telephone message registers attached in such a way that every time a bee goes through the gate its passage is recorded.

As about 300,000 bees go out during the day on honey gathering expeditions, considerable electrical energy is needed to operate the recording gate, though the amount of energy expended by the device each time a bee passes is infinitesimal. No bee can leave or enter the hive without being counted.

The Boy Who Started to Town With a Hundred Dollars

The advice they gave him for getting on in the world was simple and familiar enough; "Keep what you have, and build on it. Be careful what you do and it will grow into more."

It's a safe rule—with money or health, but a good many overlook the rule with health, until they have lost what they had. Then it's hard to get a new supply.

Postum is a splendid help in saving health from the very common losses through the drug elements of tea and coffee—whose effects on the nervous system any doctor can tell you.

Thousands of people who think it wise to be as careful of their health as they are of their dollars are users of Postum. They find this famous cereal beverage a delightful drink with any meal, and it's free from any disturbing element.

You can begin with Postum today, with an order to your grocer. The road to health is a good road for anybody to follow. "Save what you have, and build on it," is sound policy for everybody.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes. Sold by all grocers.

They can be thoroughly depended upon to clear worms from the system.

What Do Office Boys Do?

Investigation Into Spare Time Works Leads to Interesting Results

Have you ever noticed the office boy whose duty it is to sit in the reception room of the larger offices and take in the cards of Mr. Smith or Mr. Jones to the Boss? Perhaps three or four callers come in every hour during the day. What doth the busy bee in the intervals?

A self-appointed Committee on the Conservation of Energy and Promotion of Industry Among Office Boys was asked for a synopsis of the results of its investigations.

Of 1,748 office boys whose habits were subject to the investigation, it was determined:

Twelve per cent. read movie magazines and memorize the lives of movie stars.

Seventeen per cent. print their names in various types over seventy times daily.

Eleven per cent. watch the door from the hall, while they pitch pennies with other future directors and presidents.

Three per cent. collect postage stamps and spend their time sorting them.

Seven per cent. practice typing. "The large bromn fox kumped over the lazy dob."

Four per cent. sleep.

Three per cent. sit and think.

Six per cent. sit.

The remaining boys are reported by the committee to be sufficiently clever in action so that even their bosses do not know what they do!

A statement from the British War Office shows that the present house shortage is having a direct effect on the army, as well as on the civilian population in England. Legends on Rocks at Vancouver

Carvings on Rocks Said to be at Least 2,100 Years Old

The peculiar carvings on the rocks along the shores of Sproat Lake and Great Central Lake, Vancouver Island, gave rise to a legend relative to the Indians who inhabited that part of the world. Scientific analysis and examination of these carvings show them to be at least 2,000 years old. This fact inclines one to believe the Indian theory that mammoth creatures inhabited Vancouver Island in that remote period. No one knows, not even the Indian, how long ago it is since Chief Chatlat lived in the vicinity of Alberni. He was an old Indian chief, the first on the island, and some of the Indians think that he still exists in invisible form. Quatlat had a wonderful record of vanquishing the prehistoric monsters, which were like the dreadful creatures portrayed in the carvings.

Joash, viewed in the light of his ancestors, was a poor prospect for a king. His grandmother was the wicked Athaliah and his great grandparents were Ahab and Jezebel. There was enough bad blood in his veins to assure his doom. Despite this fact, he brought about some noble reforms and turned the people back to God.

I. Athaliah Usurps the Throne (vv. 1-3).

1. Her attempt to destroy the seed royal (vv. 1). In order to remove any rival claimant to the throne she tried to kill all the royal male children.

2. Joash preserved by Jehosheba (vv. 2, 3). Though Athaliah was keen-eyed she was checkmated by another woman. Her fatal omission was not to get rid of the women too. This woman, the wife of the priest, stole away the child and hid him in the bedchamber for six years. God had promised that through the David line the Messiah should come. In order that this line be unbroken Joash must be preserved. No purpose of God can fail.

II. Joash Crowned King (vv. 4-12).

1. Jehoiada's preparations (vv. 4-11). The high priest and his wife were intelligent and strong characters. As the high priest, Jehoiada felt that it was his duty to thwart the heathen project of Athaliah. Doubtless his co-operation with his wife made possible the saving of Joash.

(1) Secured the aid of the military leaders (v. 4). He knew somehow that these men were not loyal to Athaliah. (2) Bound them under solemn oath (v. 4). He took an oath of them in the house of the Lord. Honest men will stand by their word. (3) Excited their spirit of patriotism (v. 4). He gave them a sight of the king's son. This, no doubt, was a great surprise. Now, having seen the heir to the throne, they would risk everything, even their lives, in order to set him on the throne. (4) Co-ordinates all matters (vv. 5-11). The soldiers were divided into companies and arms were distributed to them. Each group was assigned to specific duties.

2. The coronation (v. 12). (1) The king's son brought forth. This was a great day in Jerusalem. After six years of usurpation, the people all the while supposing that all the heirs to the throne were dead, now to gaze upon the king's son would be a notable event. (2) Put the crown upon him. This was the formal induction into office. (3) Gave him the testimony. This was a copy of the law, showing that the king was to rule according to the law of God. The act of putting the law upon his head showed that the king himself would be under the control of the law. (4) Made him king. This shows that he was made king by the choice of the people. (5) Anointed him. They poured oil upon his head. This was the usual method of consecrating prophets, priests and kings. (6) Clapped their hands. This was a token of joy.

III. Athaliah Slain (vv. 13-17).

1. The noise of the coronation of Joash brought Athaliah to the temple (v. 15). Up to this time she thought her place on the throne was secure and that her heathen religion had free course.

2. Her dismay (v. 14). Upon her arrival at the temple she saw the king wearing the crown and surrounded by the guards, so that she could do nothing. In her despair she exclaimed: "Treason, treason." How prone wicked men and women are to cry out as though they had been wronged when their wicked plots and conspiracies are exposed and thwarted!

3. Athaliah executed (vv. 15, 16). The orders were that she should not be killed in the temple. They led her out by the way of the horses' entrance to the king's palace and slew her. What a tragic end for the sinner! Sin can only prosper for a time.

IV. Worship of the True God (vv. 17, 18).

Joash was seven years old when he was made king. The high priest made a covenant between the Lord, the king and the people that they would be the Lord's people. In carrying out this covenant they broke down the temple of Baal and slew the priest of Baal.

JOSEPH DRAKE

"When I say that I weigh twenty-five pounds more than I did a short time ago it speaks volumes for the merit of Taniac," said Jos. B. Drake, 436 Belmont Ave., Springfield, Mass.

"The first thing Tanlac did for me was to give me an appetite and tone up my stomach. It wasn't long before I was eating things I hadn't dared touch for years and anyone to see the hearty way I eat now would find it hard to believe that a few weeks ago I was dyspeptic and living on the lightest kind of diet.

"Another good thing Tanlac did for me was to drive the rheumatism almost entirely out of my system. In fact, I can truthfully say it has made me feel like a new man in every way. It certainly is a grand medicine."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

When Women Will Be Rulers of World

Professor Says by 1977 Men Will be Doing Housework

Prof. Ralph L. Powers, of the University of Southern California, says that by 1977 at the latest women will rule the world and men will do the housework and care for the children.

The reason for his belief, as stated by Prof. Powers in a lecture, is that the widespread advertisement of women in recent years has stimulated her to all sorts of activities, which have already begun to intrench her as the dominant sex. She is courted in business, the politicians fear overthrow unless they placate her, and she has won first place in the news of the day.

Her manifest destiny as ruler of the world is thus merely a matter of swift development.

Children are now allowed in the streets of Norway after dark.

Bargain-Hunters

In this community are hundreds of individuals and families on the watch for an advertisment which will offer them what they want at an advantageous price.

Call them bargain-hunters if you will, but there is nothing wrong in waiting for a bargain, especially when the seller is anxious to sell at a reduced price.

One family wants a new carpet—the need is not urgent. Another family is looking forward to buying dining-room furniture—it may not be for a twelve month.

One man is thinking of buying himself a watch. One woman a shopping bag; another an umbrella.

All can be made to buy earlier—by advertising.

A NOTE TO MERCHANTS

Stimulate business by the offer of some slow moving lines at special prices. Brighten up business by advertising some desirable goods at reduced prices. Make advertising banish dull business. Often you can tempt the buyer who is biding his or her time, to buy from you—at a time of your naming.

AN AGENCY IN PUBLICITY

A unique experiment in municipal publicity is being tried out in a number of Saskatchewan rural municipalities. A problem with a good many municipal councils was the lamentible lack of knowledge of municipal affairs which was retarding the progress of the community, and this notwithstanding all the efforts put forth by the government, the municipal association, the school, and the press as news, of course, and without charge, but the very ratepayers in most need of the information given did not get it for the reason that there are in that class who do not read the newspapers—happily a class that is growing less numerous, but still numerous enough. To overcome this misfortune in certain municipalities, the councils have decided to subscribe for the local weekly paper that serves them for every ratepayer in the community and charge the expenditure up to the taxpayers. This is a radical innovation which will be watched with a great deal of interest. The experiment is not the result of newspaper salesmanship nor did the idea originate with the weekly press, says the Moose Jaw Times. It came from the councils which were faced with a problem which publicity of some kind alone would solve. The idea, it is true, has been given an impetus by reason of the failure of many other weeklies, which were unable to survive the stressful conditions due to high production costs and lack of local support. The little country weekly is not to be despised. It performs a service to its community that is too often unappreciated until denied. When the little weekly "goes out" there is nothing that will just take its place. We doubt very much if the experiment of municipal subscriptions will save the problem. Perhaps if the municipal councils bought advertising space for the publicity they desire at regular rates, both the council and the paper would be in a better relationship. This is what is done all over the United States and the practice is making headway in some of the larger cities in Canada, where, more and more, desired publicity is coming to be recognized as a 'service rendered—Municipal News.

GETTING TOGETHER

There is a ray of hope in the announcement that the Dominion Government and the heads of the railway companies have started negotiations looking towards an adjustment of freight rates.

More good may follow a conference between the Minister of Railways and President Beatty and President Hanna than will come out of the long hearing before the Board of Railway Commissioners.

The two railway executives know the position of the western farmer as well as any man in Canada. They do not have to be told by lawyers and rate-experts that the farmer needs the help that lower freight rates can bring him. They know also that conditions that discourage the farmer are not going to help the railways. And it is not the farmer alone that is affected. All business in Canada has been slowed up by high freight rates. The process of deflation must apply to railway rates as well as to railway wages and it must be applied if we re to escape from the commercial and industrial depression in which the country now finds itself.

One of the tendencies of the times is towards more general associated action among nations and in industries in behalf of peaceful agreement and it has been found that the surest way of securing an amicable settlement of problems it to bring the parties concerned together at a round table conference. There, face to face, and with an earnest desire to arrive at a solution, they talk the matter over. That is what is occuring in the freight rates case. Hon. Mr Kennedy, representing the people, Mr Beatty and Mr Hanna, representing the companies, can do more to settle this vexed question than months of railway board talk.

The country will hopefully follow the course of these negotiations.

FARMERS TAKE LESSONS

The farmer members of the Alberta legislature have succeeded in devising something new in governmental methods.

The members on the government side of the House confess that they know little about the work of the several government departments. But they are not content to allow the cabinet ministers to handle these departments and remain themselves, in ignorance. They have asked Premier Greenfield to assign each farmer member to a special committee to investigate the workings of each department so that they may familiarize themselves with its operations and its financial needs. The farmer members propose to carry on this study while the House stands adjourned. When they assemble again in the fall, they will know considerably more about the departments than they do now and they do not intend to let this process of self-education terminate then.

This thoroughness is in keeping with the teaching of the united farmers in the western provinces. They believe in preparedness. They are ready to devote time to the mastery of the subjects that come before them. They are showing strength in the political life of the Dominion because they have given serious study to public questions Now that the Alberta farmers have taken over the government of the province, they want to know "what makes the wheels go round."

Only good to the province can follow that inquisitiveness. The innovation is commendable.—Herald.

ADVERTISING A FACTOR IN PROSPERITY

(By Frank A. Alden, President Garfield Park State Savings Bank of Chicago, in Financial Post.).

The success or failure of an advertisement depends much upon how it is written and how it is displayed. The good advertisement must do at least three things: (1) It must attract attention. (2) It must hold attention. (3) It must convince.

Make your advertisements so attractive that everyone who reads them will instinctley feel that they were intended for his or her particular benefit.

After you have spent money for an advertisement, do not rely entirely upon it to close the sale.

There are a number of things that might block a sale, even after the customer has reached your store. For example, are your windows neatly and attractively arranged so that they constitute an invitation to step inside? After he enters, does he find your store well lighted, well ventilated Are the floors cleanly in appearance? Are the show-cases and fixtures well polished. Is the merchandise tastefully and properly arranged so that it suggests more purchases other than what the customer originally con-

The strongest link in the chain of building up a business, creating goodwill, and retaining patronage is "service"—and, gentlemen, "service includes courtesy to every customer no matter what the size of the purchase may be Courtesy endows your business establishment with a cheerful atmosphere which, if coupled with a personal interest in your patron's satisfaction will prove to be an advertising asset, the value of which cannot be estimated. Remember the old saying: "A satisfied customer is one of your best advertisements!"

A community is measured by the activity of its business men. A community that never has anything to do in a public way, is on the road to the cemetery. Any citizen who will do nothing for his community is helping to dig its grave. A man that "cusses" the town, furnishes the coffin; the man who is so selfish as to have no time from his business to give affairs his attention is making the shroud. The man who will not advertise, in some form or other, is driving the hearse. The man who is always "pulling back" from the public enterprise throws bouquets on the grave. The man who is so "stingy" as to howl "hard times" preaches the funeral oration and sings the doxology and thus the community lies buried from all sorrow and care. Don't be one of the mourners. Be a booster and advertise!"

I firmly believe that advertising will be one of the most vital factors in returning prosperity, which I have reason to expect will occur during the present year Advertising is the very spirit of current events.

CALCIUM ARSENATE FOR POTATOES

With the advent of calcium arsenate as an insecticide it should, on account of its cheapness and insecticide properites, displace the use of Paris green on potatoes, which is always liable to be attended by foliage injury. For the control of fungous diseases of potatoes Bordeaux mixture of the 4-4-40 formula is to be highly commended. Lime sulphur should be avoided. As an insecticide, to be combined with the Bordeaux, use one to one and one-half pound dry arsenate of lime to very forty gallons of the spray mixture. This combination has proved on the Experimental Farms to be a thoroughly efficient control for blight and potato bugs.

The Settlers Canada Wants

The figures of the recent census reinforces the fairly well recognized fact that one of Canada's needs is a larger population. With an area larger than that of the United States, with millions of the best agricultural lands in the world, and undeveloped natural resources of wealth beyond all human computation, this Dominion has a population comparable to that of little European countries like Belgium.

Reference has been made to this outstanding Canadian problem on more than one occasion in this column, and while it is not necessary to repeat facts and figures, nor dwell at any great length on all the undoubted advantages which a substantial increase in Canada's population would bring to every man, woman and child now in the country, it may be well to continue urging the necessity for the adoption of a far-seeing, businesslike and aggressive national policy designed to meet Canada's needs in this respect.

Recently two important speeches were delivered in Eastern Canada on this subject, and in both instances commonsense views were expressed and sound advice given. One such address was delivered by Sir Clifford Sifton before the Toronto Board of Trade, and it must be admitted that if there is any man in Canada qualified to speak on the subject of population, and the relation of immigration thereto, it is Sir Clifford Sifton. He has had practical experience in handling the problem, and, while mistakes may have been made under his administration, he certainly succeeded in obtaining results to a greater degree that any other man before or since his regime as Minister of the Interior.

Sir Clifford showed he had little sympathy with many of the pet theories, which find acceptance in some quarters these days. There is, in his opinion, but one way to accomplish the desired results, and that is to go after stalwart agricultural settlers, bring them to Canada, and put them on the farms where they can make good. He is absolutely and unalterably opposed to bringing in immigrants by the million without reference to their ability to "make good" on the land. Half a million agricultural settlers of the right type are, in his opinion, worth ten million of other classes. Settlers on the land would establish homes here and would bring about a natural permanent increase in population. Settlers of other classes if brought in would inevitably find their way to the cities, and create new and difficult problems, or would drift to the United States.

The second address to which reference is made was by Professor C. R. Fay, of Toronto University, on the subject "Principles of a Sound Immigration Policy." Like Sir Clifford Sifton he strongly urged a policy of going after and getting settlers of the agricultural labor class. At the same time he argued that good agricultural laborers could be obtained in the Old Country from a wider class than that of the farmers and farm laborers, if they are given the necessary training. He held, therefore, that Canada's immigration policy should provide for the giving of such training, and in this connection instanced the success achieved in so many instances by soldier settlers under the Soldier Settlement Board. He advocated the extension of this policy for the direction of land settlement as a whole.

Professor Fay summed up modern conditions of successful settlement as requiring:

1. Land with reasonable marketing facilities.
2. The right kind of land for the settler and the right kind of crops for the land.
3. Sufficient capital; some settlers might be able to provide the whole for themselves, but assistance in the shape of loans would probably be required in most cases.

The first essential to holding good settlers on the land was the right policy of land settlements. The second was the reconstruction of rural life around various forms of co-operative enterprise. Co-operation means, he said, better business, better farming, and a better country life.

The old policy of bringing settlers into the country and then leaving them to shift for themselves will not do. They must be assisted in establishing themselves and taught as to the methods which make for success in this country. Furthermore, hand in hand with, or rather in advance of, the adoption of an aggressive policy to obtain this type of settlers, there must be action by the Federal Government to ensure to the people, now on the land and to those who will come, adequate markets and marketing facilities to the end that the results of their labor may yield a reasonable profit over costs of production and as a reward for the labor given and the capital invested.

What is a Canadian?

People in Different Parts of Country Have Conflicting Opinions

Professor Wrong says a distinct ethnological type is being developed in Canada. It is not English—it is not French—it is Canadian. Nobody will deny that there is such a creature as a Canadian, but will the professor please define what constitutes a Canadian?

Ninety per cent. of the population of the province of Quebec insist that they are Canadians, whereas they are generally defined elsewhere as French-Canadians. National unity is very desirable, but racial and national unity is the product of many centuries. Every person has some conception of what constitutes a Canadian, but people living in different parts of the country will be found to have very conflicting opinions.—Toronto Telegram.

A Plebiscite on War

No Reason Why War Should not be Outlawed by Civilized Nations

Why not declare war to be a crime? Why should not the civilized nations among the world by a referendum among their peoples, or by an act of their legislators, declare the practice of warfare to be a crime? What if some nation or nations subsequently forget themselves and engage in warfare? Aren't there many things which nations or communities have outlawed, and of which from time to time somebody is guilty? War can be outlawed, and when this has been done the attitude of statesmen and business men, of churches and newspapers, will be quite different towards war. Now it is recognized as a legal and legitimate procedure, just as the duel was so recognized a short time ago, and just as slavery was so recognized. Let us have a declaration that war is unlawful and see if that decision does not accomplish something. Then we can bend our efforts to the prevention of unlawful acts.—The Rotarian.

Sunday in Japan

Advantages Not Fully Understood by Most of People

Tokio newspapers announce the imperial recognition of Sunday as a national day of rest throughout Japan, as the result of the influence which Christianity is exercising now in a non-Christian nation.

The Government has been for years officially committed to a partial recognition of the Sabbath. On that day imperial offices were closed, schools given a holiday, big banks did not open for business and many people ceased their labors.

The advantages of Sunday are not fully understood by most of the Japanese people. Christian preachers carefully train their followers that worship on the Sabbath is not work but the refreshing of body, soul and spirit.

Country laborers in Japan work long hours with no day of rest, while workers in cities usually keep one or two days out of each months.

This class now does not know what to do with Sunday. As a result, motion picture theatres have sprung up with great rapidity in all the small villages in the empire. These do a big business on Sunday, being the only way the masses know of using the God-given time.

SPRING WEATHER HARD ON BABY

The Canadian spring weather—one day mild and bright; the next raw and blustery is extremely hard on the baby. Conditions are such that the mother cannot take the little one out for the fresh air so much to be desired. He is confined to the house which is so often over-heated and badly ventilated. He catches cold; his little stomach and bowels become disordered and the mother soon has a sick baby to look after. To prevent this an occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets should be given. They regulate the stomach and bowels, thus preventing or banishing colds, simple fevers, colic or any other of the many minor ailments of childhood. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Favor Russian Fund

But Halifax Unemployed Censure Parliament for Neglect of Canadians

Commenting on the grounds of humanity "the subscription of $25,000, not to relieve starving Russians," by the Dominion Government, and the recognition by the Government of its responsibility in the "save the Russian children campaign," the Halifax Unemployment Association passed a resolution expressing "severest censure" of the Parliament of Canada for the neglect of "Canadians who are starving mentally and morally as well as physically" in the midst of plenty in one of the richest domains of the whole world.

The resolution prayed the Government to do something to "save Canadian children" and added that a loan of $500 or more to the "distressed "is not only its primary duty, but the only logical step to take in a capitalistic world to maintain its citizenship."

A second resolution covered virtually the same ground with regards to the Nova Scotia Government.

Wireless Lifesaving at Sea

Apparatus Developed in Britain Has Proved Its Usefulness

The wireless direction finder, which was first devised and developed in Great Britain, has proved of immense value in bringing help to disabled ships. The function of the apparatus is to enable the vessel which receives the S.O.S. signal to ascertain the direction from which the appeal comes. During recent storms in the Atlantic a steamer became practically a wreck, and for 36 hours the crew was huddled on deck without food. The captain sent out an S.O.S. message giving what he thought was his position, but as he was in error the first six subs which went to the rescue were unable to find him—one in fact searched unsuccessfully for 15 hours. Eventually a British vessel with a direction finding apparatus on board arrived on the scene just in time to save most of the crew. The vessel unfortunately foundered before all hands could be got on board the rescuing boat.

Germany's War Losses

Approximately One in Seven Killed in Battle, Statistician Finds

Forty-six men were killed and 109 were wounded on the German side during every hour the world war was raging, according to an estimate arrived at by General von Altrock, a statistician. This estimate was made from a study of official records.

Germany's losses totalled in dead 1,808,545 and in wounded 4,246,779. Men to the number of 13,000,000 were under arms during the course of the war, of whom about one in seven was killed in battle.

The officers' corps lost 53,000 men killed and 96,000 wounded. German soldier and civilian losses through death, caused directly or indirectly by the war, are estimated by General von Altrock, at 12,000,000.

New War Medal

King George Approves of Medals for Heroes of Allied Nations

King George has approved of the issue of a medal in silver and bronze to those persons of allied nationality who almost always at the risk of their lives, rendered assistance to British soldiers behind the enemy's lines. Some of these soldiers were prisoners of war actually in captivity, others were endeavoring to escape, and yet others, cut off by the German advance, were in hiding and seeking to rejoin their units. The list of awards comprises 132 silver medals and 573 bronze medals. In addition to these awards 28 honorary appointments have been made to the Order of the British Empire in exceptionally deserving cases, while specially prepared letters of thanks have been issued in upwards of 1,000 other instances. The medals will be distributed through the British embassies at Brussels and Paris in the near future.

River Travelling Sideways

Stream in Alaska Trying to Reach Old Level

The largest Alaskan river emptying into the Arctic Ocean, the Colville, is gradually sliding down hill. It flows north parallel to an eastern range of hills and actually part way up on the slope of the hills, so that if the stream's western bank were cut, the water would abandon the present bed and flow down into the bottom of the valley. The western side of the river is deep, where the current is eating into the bank year after year, but the eastern side shallows out into a broad stony beach which shows by its great width how far the river has already travelled sideways. The explanation of the Colville's eccentric conduct is that after it formed its bed and valley, as a normally behaved river bed does, there was a later contortion of the earth's crust, lifting the stream bodily part way up the side of the slope. Ever since the river has been trying to get down to its old level again.

Portraits of Saints Discovered in Rome

Expert Believes the Paintings Were Made from Life

What are believed to be contemporary portraits of St. Peter and St. Paul have been discovered in a hypogeum, or underground structure of the Roman epoch. The belief in their authenticity is shared by the well-known archaeologist, Prof. Lanitani.

The hypogeum was found in the course of excavations for a building of a large garage. It comprises a number of rooms and galleries, a crypt, and a Christian Church, with marvellous frescoes of a very early date. The professor believes the portraits were painted from life.

Beekeeping Profitable

Production of Honey on Commercial Scale in the West

A noticeable feature of Western Canada agriculture in recent years has been the progress recorded in the adoption of beekeeping, and the production of honey as a commercial venture. The western provinces, particularly the irrigated sections, are admirably adapted to the production of alfalfa and other clovers, and this has administered a pronounced stimulus to beekeeping which made remarkable progress particularly in Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia. The natural bloom of Alberta throughout the summer season affords abundant food for bees, and the alfalfa fields of the irrigated districts in Southern Alberta are fast arriving at a leading place in this respect in North America.

North And South Reach New Agreement For Peace In Ireland

London.—Winston Spencer Churchill, secretary for the colonies, announced in the House of Commons the terms of the most important agreement yet reached between the representatives of the northern and southern governments in Ireland for bringing about peace in the strife-torn country.

The agreement which was reached with unexpected expedition at a conference between delegates of the Irish groups and representatives of the Imperial Government, far transcends in importance the pact arrived at between Michael Collins, head of the Provisional Government, and Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, at an earlier stage in the negotiations. It provides for the re-organization of the police in Ulster on a basis satisfactory to the religious leanings of the people of the north and south; for the trial of persons charged with serious offenses by a special court composed of the highest justices; for general co-operation between the north and south of a most promising character, and for assistance from the British Parliament to remedy the unemployment difficulties in Belfast, which rendered the carrying out of the previous Craig-Collins pact almost impossible.

The terms of the Irish agreement as announced in the House of Commons by Winston Spencer Churchill, the Imperial secretary for war, are as follows:

First.—Peace is today declared.

Second.—From today the two governments undertake to co-operate in every way in their power with a view to the restoration of peaceful conditions in the unsettled areas.

Third.—The police in Belfast are to be organized in general in accordance with the following conditions:

(1) Special police in mixed districts to be composed half of Catholics and half of Protestants. All specials not required for these forces to be withdrawn to their homes and surrender their arms.

(2) An advisory committee composed of Catholics will assist in the selection of Catholic recruits for the special recruits.

(3) All police on duty, except the usual secret service men, to be uniformed and officially numbered.

(4) All arms and ammunition issued to the police to be deposited in barracks in charge of a military or other competent officer when policemen are not on duty, and an official record must be kept of all arms issued and ammunition used.

(5) Any search for arms is to be carried out by a police force composed half of Catholics and half of Protestants, the military rendering any necessary assistance.

ARMS CONFERENCE DELEGATE SAYS INDIA WILL REMAIN WITHIN EMPIRE

London.—Right Hon. S. R. Srinivasa Sastri, speaking at a dinner given at Delhi in his honor, Reuter's Delhi correspondent cables, made his first important utterance since his return to India from the Washington conference. He declared that a section of the American press was functioning in wrong channels regarding India's connection with Great Britain. He stressed the urgent need of unofficial visitors touring the United States to proclaim that, according to the best opinion in India, the country was determined to remain within the British commonwealth.

Speaking of his intended mission to Australia, New Zealand and Canada this summer, Mr. Sastri said he would devote himself to pleading the cause of the Indians settled in the dominions. He said he hoped to help educate the electorate in these countries with a view to assisting their premiers to carry legislation giving effect to the resolution which the Imperial conference passed last year. He expressed the belief that India would soon attain dominion status.

Deterioration of Livestock Denied

British Minister of Agriculture Says Statement Not True

London.—In the House of Commons a member alleged that home-bred cattle, sheep and pigs were rapidly deteriorating and becoming infected with tuberculosis. He urged that removal of Canadian cattle embargo be undertaken so as to allow healthy cattle and other stock to enter this country.

Sir A. Griffith-Boscawen, minister of agriculture, emphatically denied the allegations about the deterioration of English stock and his denial was cheered.

Indiana Woman Killed by Koreans

Shanghai.—Mrs. W. J. Snider, of Brazil, Ind., was killed and four other persons were wounded when two Koreans made an abortive attempt to assassinate Gen. Giichi Tanaka, former Japanese minister of war, upon their arrival here from Manila. Mrs. Snider was accompanied by her husband on a trip around the world.

King Albert Hurt

London.—King Albert of Belgium, who is visiting Rome, injured his right arm in a fall in his room, says a Central News despatch quoting the newspaper Tribuna.

To Improve Cattle Industry

Livestock Experts of Canada Hold Conference at University in Saskatoon

Saskatoon.—With the object of analysing the cattle situation as it exists in Canada today and with a desire to formulate a policy that will ensure to the farmers and cattlemen of Western Canada something of a permanent character in the way of obtaining adequate returns from the cattle industry, representatives of the Federal Government, of the Western Provincial Governments, and of agricultural colleges and livestock organizations met in session at the university here.

The conference grew out of the present economic conditions and the need for some kind of lead being given to the farmers and cattlemen of the west in the type of cattle needed for domestic and export markets.

War Against Seals

Vancouver, B.C.—Machine guns, rifles and "cross-line" traps will be the weapons in the war against hair seals and sea-lions which the Canadian fisheries department proposes to wage off the Queen Charlotte Islands, and the west coast of Vancouver Island, in an effort to preserve the salmon, the officials of the department will seek to exterminate the sea monsters which have been wreaking havoc in the fish preserves for years.

Amendment To Dominion Elections Act Affecting The Franchise Of Women

Ottawa.—The first private member's motion of the session was carried without division in the House and will entail an amendment to the Dominion Elections Act, affecting the franchise of women. The enfranchisement to the foreign-born woman, naturalized by marriage to a Canadian, was particularly at issue. Under a subsection of the act as it stands, such a woman unless born on the continent of North America must obtain a certificate from a judge before she is entitled to vote.

W. D. Euler (Liberal, North Waterloo), led the discussion. As he has done in previous sessions, Mr. Euler sought an expression of opinion from the House that the sub-section should be struck from the act. He claimed that it had disfranchised thousands. It placed the woman born in France or Belgium in a position inferior to that of the Mexican or American, educated or uneducated, black or white. The sub-section, it was emphasized by Conservatives, was directed against women from Germany and Austria, although Hon. Hugh Guthrie, former solicitor-general, who piloted the act through the House, admitted that the reasons for the clause which existed two or three years ago were not so strong today.

Miss Agnes MacPhail entered the discussion. She held that women wanted equal rights under the franchise. Her remarks, to the amusement of the House, occasioned a reply from ex-Mayor T. L. Church, of Toronto, who informed Miss MacPhail that she did not represent "all the women in this country."

Premier King indicated his approval of the resolution and announced that if it received also the approval of the House, the Government would give effect to it by an amendment to the Dominion Elections Act.

After nearly three hours' discussion, the House gave its approval. The next step will be the submission of the Government amending bill.

Refuse Permits For Foolhardy Stunts

Niagara Falls, Ont. — Mayor Thompson has two applications before him for permits to erect a cable across lower Niagara Gorge to be used for an exhibition stunt, but he has decided to refuse them. The application from Miss Eleanora Yelding, the 17-year-old English girl, who wants to perform the "Blondin act," has been on file for some time and the second one arrived from James Hard, of Toronto, who asks permission to repeat his performance of 1896.

The mayor takes the ground that the corporation would not be justified in permitting an attempt to walk across the river, because of the risk of life.

Basilica of St. Anne Destroyed by Fire

Short Circuit in Electric Wiring Said to be Cause

Quebec.—As a result of the fire which broke out at Ste. Anne de Beaupre only the gaunt ruins of the majestic cathedral which marked the site of the far-famed shrine, where pilgrims have worshiped for more than three centuries, are left standing. While the monastery and the college are also a mass of desolate debris. The monetary loss involved is estimated at $1,200,000, while the insurance carried will probably reach the sum of $500,000.

Although no definite plans have yet been announced by the Redemptorist Fathers, it was stated that as soon as possible work will be started to rebuild the venerable pile and it was said that it would be constructed on a larger and even more imposing scale than the building which has just been destroyed. The cause of the fire is attributed to a short circuit in the electric wiring.

Newspaper Insures Readers

Competition Among London Publishers Leads to Remarkable Offer

London.—Further attempts to beat the rest are now being made daily by London newspapers in their competition for circulation.

Although the public is now insured against every conceivable risk, including lost laundry, mumps, typhoid and sudden death, by the purchase of a morning newspaper, the ingenuity of the Daily News refuses to be baffled. The News announces that not only the reader of the News and his wife, but his children under 16 years of age will be insured gratis.

The Morning Post has added new features and eloquently renews the promise of intention to become the premier newspaper of England.

The Daily Telegram arranged to distribute its latest edition in Paris before breakfast time by means of special service to be supplied by an aeroplane company.

Airplanes for Arctic Journey

Two U.S. Planes Will Accompany Amundsen on North Trip

New York.—Two United States cruising airplanes, equipped with powerful radio telephones, will accompany Capt. Raold Amundson in his "drift" across the Arctic basin, scheduled to start from Seattle, June, 1, the Norwegian explorer declared on his arrival from Norway to complete his exploration plans. With Amundson was Lieut. Oscar Omdal, Norwegian air ace, who has had special training in flying under adverse conditions. Another pilot who will accompany the expedition, Lieut. Dahl, now is on his way to the coast via the Panama Canal.

Edmonton, Alta.—C. O. F. Wright, U.F.A. member of Ribstone, Alberta, died March 28th; at the Royal Alexandra Hospital, Edmonton. Pleural pneumonia is given as the cause. Mr. Wright was taken ill at the San Remo Lodge, where he was staying with his wife and family.

The late Mr. Wright leaves a wife and three children, one of whom, a daughter, is at the same hospital suffering also from pneumonia. It is understood that sue is progressing favorably. The Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of interior, is a brother-in-law of deceased.

Research Work to Counteract Grasshoppers

Looking for Diminution of this Menace in the West

Ottawa.—A diminution of the grasshopper menace in the western provinces during the coming crop season is looked for by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, according to answers given to a question in the House by O. R. Gould (Assiniboia).

Hon. W. R. Motherwell stated that in Manitoba from evidence at hand it was anticipated that grasshoppers would be less in evidence than they were during 1921. In Saskatchewan a further outbreak was expected, but the chief outbreak apparently would be in Alberta in which province there was a heavy egg deposition in 1921, which, it was expected, would result in an important infestation of hoppers in 1922, particularly in the sections immediately north of the main line of the Canadian Northern Railway.

It was the intention of the Government to continue research work with a view to finding means to counteract the damage caused by the grasshoppers, wheat stem saw fly, rust and cut worm.

Further experiments with chlorine gas as an insect destroyer would not be made, as previous experiments with this gas indicated that the remedy was too expensive, Mr. Motherwell added.

Registered Bonds Discarded by Thieves

Police Recover $3,450 Stolen From Bank at Ladner, B.C.

Vancouver.—City police recovered bonds worth $3,450, proceeds of a robbery which netted thieves who looted the Royal Bank at Ladner, B.C., securities to the value of more than $50,000. The recovered bonds which were registered and apparently discarded by the robbers as too difficult to dispose of, were lying in the stolen automobile which the robbers used in their raid on the bank. The car belonging to Winstow Staples, of Ladner, was left at the rear of an apartment house in Vancouver, where Mr. Staples' daughter resides.

The exact value of the loot has not been established but a partial list supplied by officials indicates that at least $25,000 worth of the stolen securities were easily negotiable.

Fur Depot for Wrangel Island

Vancouver, B.C.—The Hudson's Bay Company is understood to be considering opening a great fur-clearing depot at Wrangel Island upon which the British flag was hoisted recently. Last season the steamer Lady Kindersley would have paid a visit to Wrangel if she could have escaped the ice after having come out of the waters of Herschel Island. Wrangel lies to the west of Behring Straits, while Herschel is on the east.

Advocates Deporting Alien Bootleggers

Washington. — The situation along the Canadian border created by the activities of liquor smugglers is improving somewhat but not as fast as the United States prohibition enforcement department desires, according to J. P. Jones, assistant prohibition commissioner, who appeared before the House Immigration Committee to advocate deportation of aliens who persistently violate the law, as a means of breaking up the business of the bootlegger. He also advocated the application of similar measures toward offenders under the narcotic laws to curb illicit traffic in drugs, the extent of which is international.

Death of Sir John C. Eaton

Toronto's Merchant Prince Succumbs to Influenza After Gallant Fight

Toronto.—Sir John C. Eaton is dead, after a gallant and remarkable fight for over a period of about six weeks. He was 46 years old.

Lady Eaton, wife of Sir John; Mrs. Timothy Eaton, his mother and widow of the founder of the immense departmental store in which Sir John was president; Timothy Eaton, the 18-year-old son who arrived from England only last week, together with other relatives and officials of the Eaton interests, were near at hand when death ensued.

Sir John took a chill in February while on a business trip to Montreal and New York. This developed into influenza, followed by complications. The most skilful physicians on the continent were summoned to the bedside.

During the week ending March 18, Sir John rallied considerably, and the physicians, while retaining a conservative attitude regarding his condition, ceased the issuance of daily bulletins. It was with something of a shock that the intimation was received that Sir John was again in a critical condition.

Sir John Craig Eaton was regarded as Toronto's biggest multi-millionaire. The interests of which he was the head has ramifications in many parts of Canada, Great Britain and foreign countries. He was prominent in philanthropic and patriotic work. He was born in Toronto in 1876, and succeeded his father as head of the company in 1907.

Lady Eaton and four young sons and one daughter survive; also Mrs. Timothy Eaton, mother of Sir John; one brother and two sisters.

Sir John Craig Eaton, K.B., generally supposed to be Toronto's wealthiest citizen, was born in Toronto, April 28, 1876. His father was the late Timothy Eaton, founder of the extensive business with important interests in a number of cities of the Dominion including, Montreal, Moncton, Winnipeg, Vancouver, Toronto and Regina.

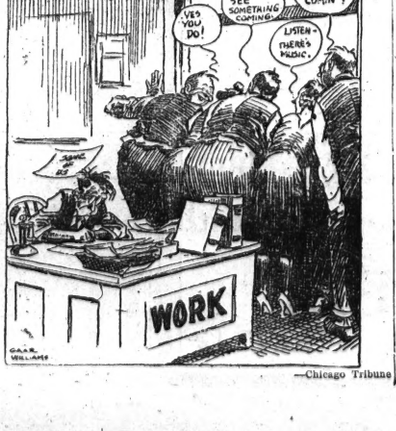

Ontario's Liquor Troubles

Hamilton, Ont.—It is stated here that Hon. W. E. Raney, attorney-general of Ontario, will await a more definite case before appealing to higher courts to test the legality of trucking liquor through Ontario for delivery into the United States. A motor load of whiskey consigned to 19 different parties in Syracuse, N.Y., was recently seized here. A conviction registered in this connection by the local magistrate was reversed by the county judge.

Lemieux, sheriff of Montreal; Dr. Gustave Lemieux, deputy speaker of the Quebec legislature; Dr. Arthur Lemieux, Montreal, and Auguste Lemieux, K.C., Ottawa.

Coal Miners In U. S. And Western Canada Go Out On Strike

New York.—Approximately 600,000 coal miners have quit work to enforce new wage contracts, according to union reports from all bituminous and anthracite fields. The idle miners include 500,000 union men and some 100,000 non-union men, according to union tabulation.

The United States Government decided not to take any action at present, as the situation was not deemed critical.

The only oasis in the strike area was Kentucky, where 5,000 union men continued work because their contract runs another year.

Kansas miners were ordered out despite an order of the industrial court extending the present contract a month.

The union officers ordered 10,000 men to remain in the mines to protect property from damages incident to non-operation.

In Western Canada, comprising the coal fields of Alberta and Eastern British Columbia, approximately twelve thousand men went out.

The operators and miners came to an agreement this afternoon for keeping in the pumpmen and others to protect the mines at salaries prevailing. The eastern mines were not affected.

Government reports indicate goodly coal supplies on hand, estimated to last fifty-one days in certain areas at least. Railroad officers asserted plans had been made to suspend certain freight trains, especially on coal roads. It is estimated that 18,000 railroad men in Pennsylvania will be out of work as a result of the strike.

Professor Zimmern will speak on the following topics: "Education and Life," "Politics and Life," "Education in Britain."

Other speakers outside the Saskatchewan teaching profession who will address the convention are Chief Justice Haultain who will speak on "Educational Reminiscences of the North-west"; Dr. Cramny, of Red Deer, Alta., on "Education in Canada"; Dr. Carrothers, of the University of Saskatchewan, on "The Wage Question."

Special railway rates will be available good going April 13th to 19th. To avail themselves of these rates passengers will purchase first-class tickets to Saskatoon and obtain at the same time a standard certificate which must be presented at time of registration.

Further information about the convention can be secured by writing to the Secretary, R. Weir, Regina Normal.

Miners Narrowly Escape Suffocation

Doors Governing Air in Caledonia Colliery Were Jammed

Sydney, N.S.—Four hundred miners in Caledonia Colliery were placed in imminent peril of suffocation by an alleged instance of sabotage in the mining district of Glace Bay. The men were about to begin work when inspectors discovered that two large doors governing the flow of air through the passages had been "sprag-ged" or jammed, so that no fresh air was being pumped into the working section of the mine, with the result that the atmosphere was rapidly becoming foul and fatal to human beings.

Editor Protests Against Boycott

Wage Dispute in Publishing Trade Effects British Magazine

London.—The editor of the Nineteenth Century Review, a well known magazine, issues a public protest against the treatment accorded his publication by the trade union. The March issue of the Review, he declares, was boycotted and the April issue is being similarly threatened as a result of the wage dispute in the publishing trade. The union, it is declared, ordered the publication not to be sold by railway bookstalls or the trading distributors.

Decrease in Eastern Freights

Winnipeg.—Reductions in lake and rail freight rates on grain and grain products of 5 1-2 cents per 100 pounds on grain for domestic consumption at destination, and one cent per 100 pounds on grain for export, applicable between the head of the lakes and points in Eastern Canada and Eastern United States, were announced by Canadian Pacific Railway freight officials.

The reduction on export rates goes into effect on April 20 and on domestic rates, April 29.

To Represent Canada at Rome

W. A. Wilson, of Regina, Will Attend Meeting of World Agriculturists

Regina, Sask.—W. A. Wilson, general manager of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Creameries, has been appointed one of two delegates to represent Canada at the forthcoming conference of world agriculturists to be held in Rome, Italy.

The appointment of the two delegates is made by the Dominion Government, and Mr. Wilson has just received advice of his appointment. He will leave here about April 15 en route to the sunny south, to take part in this most important conference.

One of the most important questions likely to be discussed at this session of the conference will be the advisability or organizing a wheat pool which will be able to exercise some kind of control on the prices of the world markets.

Mr. Wilson was formerly dairy commissioner for the Government of Saskatchewan.

Doubt Reported Death of Lenine

Conflicting Stories Being Told of Russian Soviet Premier

London.—A Central News despatch from Paris says that a report that Nikolai Lenine, Russian Soviet premier, is dead, is published by the Rome newspapers, who treat it with reserve.

Lenine has been reported dead or seriously ill on several occasions. One of the latest stories was that a German specialist was being rushed to Moscow to treat him for an internal disease resulting from wounds inflicted three years ago by an assassin. Another version was that he was suffering from cancer, but a Moscow despatch to the Associated Press told of his appearance before a meeting of the all-Russian Communist Congress in the Kremlin Palace, at which he spoke for two hours.

Woman Amputates Arm

Seattle.—Mrs. M. Lindauer amputated her own arm at her home in Richmond, a suburb, because she told her 16-year-old daughter, a spirit commanded her to do so. She was taken to a hospital in a critical condition. The daughter was also taken to the hospital suffering from shock.

Allied Supreme Council Expected To Meet Again In The Near Future

Paris.—The Allied Supreme Council is likely to meet again in the near future, it is believed here, as a result of the German chancellor's refusal of conditions attached by the reparations commission to the moratorium granted Germany on her reparations payments.

The Chancellor's reply will come before the reparations commission first, but that body, lacking the power to take any coercive measures, will again refer the question to the Allies.

Too many complications are involved, it is believed, to permit of an agreement on a plan of action being reached through the Allied diplomatic representatives, and it is thought in the best informed Allied circles that Premier Poincare, therefore, will probably be obliged to consent to a meeting of the supreme council. An exchange of views will take place preparatory to this meeting, which may precede the general Genoa conference.

The French semi-official opinion is that Chancellor Wirth has been obliged to switch his position as did Dr. Simons before him, in order to maintain his majority, and that he has become thoroughly committed to resistance to the Allies.
